Who Said "Prunes"? Special This Week Only

Just received a large carload Fancy Del Monte 40 50 Prunes. These prunes were grown in the famous Santa Clara Valley of California, a section noted for its production of the very best prunes. "You?" he said grinly. "You also knew the truth? The action of the others, I can understand. But-a Churchman cannot lend himself to such a conspiracy as this."

"Under correction, Lord Scroops," said do Juszuc gently; "a gentleman caunct betray a woman's confidence without her consent."

Lord Scroope winced perceptibly. He turned to de Jussac and bowed. "Am I receiving instruction from a 'nyman?" be inquired.

"It's the last thing I would dare," replied Bertrand humbly. "It is I who look instruction. Does not the Church respect the seul of the confessional?" "I make no ciaim, and no excuses!" said Alexander suddenly. "I have only this to say. I loved Georgina Bernors from the day I saw her. When I learned the real position I loved her more. Her leynly sud devotion only mesessed my esteem. She is the only wecam living that I care for; I require you to remember that she is my promised wife. And nobody in this room," said Alexander helly, "shall address one word of repreach to her!"

"Well done!" cried Almee. "Alexander, you're a man. I'm proud of you, cousin!"

"Thank you, Aimee," said Aiexander.
"It is for me," said Lord Scroope steraly, "to apportion the blame. Georgina Berners is here under—"

He was interrupted by the volcanic arrival of Billy through the window, panting and eager, the tuft of hair on top of his head erect like the crest of a cocknico.

"I've been looking for you every-where!" he cried. "You-" "Go out?" said Lady Ersthen flerce-

"Tet me go!" she cald brokenly, "I want to go away. I want to go."
Bilty, ginneling quickly from her to Almee and Lord Scroone, turned and fitted out again through the window. No one noticed him. All eyes were on Georgiaa.
Alexander intervened—but it was Lady Etythea who, with an extraordi-narily determined movement, overtook Georgian. Passing a supporting arm round the girl's waist, she turned and faced the stupefied company.

"Let me remind you all," said Lady

Erython, in a voice that compelled silence, "of one thing time is in danger of being everlooked. I am mistress here at Jervaulx! I have listened with an unexampled patience. Hold your tongue, Anthony! I have welcomed the slilance of Georgina with this family. and Alexander will have such a wife as I myself would have chosen for him. the front and the servants."

THERE is a wealth of meaning in the phrase "Just a Real Good Car." In it are incorporated the ideals of W. C. Durant's thirty-five years' experience as a manufacturer of vehicles, as a builder of more than two million automobiles. The Durant brought fame to liself in a short time for it does its work woll. It keeps going every day. It is not a bother. This mediantism is hardly ever brought to the attention of the ownor. It piles up mileage without our appreciable wear and does this at filtio cost. The Durant Car represents acoust mechanical design; simplicity of construction; dependability and durability; power for all occasions, casily controlled; real riding comfort; appourance, that is modern and always in good taste; completeness of appointments and equipment; and economy in operation. These are the qualities which justify the phrase Just a Real Good Car. N automobile—wonderful machine though it is—is still a machine, built by human hands and subject to wear. Obviously the quality of its performance depends upon the arre with which it is built and the nare that it receives afterward.

The construction of the Durant Four establishes a precedent by proreation, but also for the owner's ut-most convenience and economy of time, labor and expense in the necesmary enre of his car.

Hand-painted, streamline body of roomy, five-pussenger capacity with plonty of leg room; seats set at comparable auglo and covered by gonuine black leather over deep springs; instrument board finished in circus-sian walnut; one-man top with gypsy curtains and side curtoins that open with doors.
